Supporting the professional development of Women in Insurance

Introducing iWIN

iWIN – Independent Women in Insurance, was formed in 2014. Its founding aims and objectives were to provide a forum for networking, mentoring and for targeted learning and development; which provides a coherent voice for the interests of all women within the insurance industry supporting the growing momentum of the diversity agenda. Happily, Diversity and Inclusion are now high on the agendas of enlightened Corporations.

Although named Independent Women in Insurance, iWIN is very much gender inclusive in the need for education and understanding.

So iWIN re-articulates our vision of supporting the learning and development of Women in Insurance. iWIN seeks to demonstrate the benefits that professional development can bring to you.

Our forum topics are being designed to help young women to acquire knowledge and skills which are relevant to their career, enabling them to take control of their development.

Our aim is to help to keep your skills and knowledge up to date and prepare you for greater responsibilities- to boost your confidence, strengthen your professional credibility, and help you become more creative in tackling new challenges.

Where am I now?

Where do I want to be?

What do I have to do to get there?

When should I review progress?

Key Features

- Forums featuring hot topics of a regulatory, technical or behavioural nature, presented by influential speakers
- Application pending for CII CPD accreditation
- All welcome - livery company members and non-livery attendees
- Gender inclusive - a meeting of minds
- Professional development targets for whatever career stage you're currently at

The Worshipful Company of Insurers - who are we?

Incorporated as The Company of Insurers, we were granted Livery status in October 1979 to become the Worshipful Company of Insurers. Our Livery status, awarded only three months after the Company's incorporation, is something of a record and an endorsement of the position that the insurance industry holds within the City of London. The WCI received its grant of a Royal Charter in 2015.

Now with over 470 members (both Freemen and Liverymen) drawn from professions across the insurance industry, we share a rich tradition with London's Livery Companies of promoting excellence within our industry, while working to help and contribute to the City Civic in London and the wider community.

Membership of the Company is restricted to those eligible for membership of the CII and is thus limited to those engaged, in the widest sense, in the business of insurance. From the outset it was the aim of the Company to develop a broad and balanced membership from different sectors of the industry - insurers, both life and non-life, Lloyd's underwriters and brokers, loss adjusters, lawyers, accountants, consultants and affiliated organisations. Today, the WCI also seeks to attract the industry's leaders into membership and to achieve a reasonable spread of members by age and gender.

Our iWIN Forums and Workshops are open to all involved in the insurance industry.

There is no requirement for delegates to be members of The Worshipful Company of Insurers. These Forums are co-sponsored by those organisations whose logos appear on the front cover of this document.

“ The iWIN forum is part of the WCI's mission to be the premier pan-industry body for individuals active in the business of insurance. ”

Networking with others

An important feature of the iWIN Forums is the opportunity to meet others and to discuss matters of topical interest. Amplify the issues raised by speakers, ask them individual questions, clarify contentious points, share experiences and learn from others.

Each iWIN Forum concludes with an informal session, during which refreshments are served, that provides business and social networking opportunities for attendees in the unique setting of The Insurance Hall.
